

News photo by Koss Najarian

Jackie: accepting an award from Daniel Garcia as others look on.

Jackie Says 'Saludos, Amigos,' at Latin Exhibit

They held a reception and preview of the Latin Roots Exhibit last night in the Library of the Performing Arts in Lincoln Center, and who should pop up for a look-see but Jackie Kennedy Onassis. She arrived by cab and left by cab, and in between nodded at Deputy Mayor Herman Badillo, jazz pianist Billy Taylor, bandleader Tito Puente and organizer Felipe Luciano of NBC. After she viewed the exhibit, which traces the history of Spanish music in New York from 1930 to 1978, Jackie was given an award by Daniel Garcia, honcho of the Latin Academy Awards. The show, which opens officially today, runs through Sept. 8.